There are some mysteries we are so accustomed to that we forget their true dimension. Up to this day, scientists have not been able to solve the enigmatic migration of billions of birds of passage. Up to this day, they continue to work on solving the mystery with ever new methods. Impressively depicting such research requires highest filmmaking expertise, unorthodox dramaturgic ideas and an exceptional talent for staging scientific facts. In their production „Migrating Birds – Scouts of Different Worlds“, Petra Höfer and Freddie Röckenhaus superbly master all that. The award winner in the category „Best Science Film“ proves just how suspenseful this journey is.
