It is not only protagonists that make every good movie and every drama. And even the Academy Awards honour best lead and best supporting actors. An island off the central African coast is the scene where we do not only see the exciting family life of the drill dynasty but also – and perhaps more importantly – the dramatic supporting actors. The audience is mesmerized watching thousands of gobies – and we are talking fish – climb a 30 m cliff to reach the river. Brilliant images by Ivo Noerenberg and Oliver Goetzl allow us to witness the many dramas on Bioko.
