Atmospheric moments of a film depend very much on music. Contrary to knowledge music speaks directly to the heart and the soul.

This film exemplifies the possibilities of direction and composition collaborating creatively, intensely and confidently. Imaginative motives continue to cite the leading theme – the magic of the moors – and provide the film with an unmistakable signature.

The sundew hovers like a wafting pixie and the nightly dance of dead branches sounds like a message from beyond. The music mesmerizes and works perfectly with the sound design.
