A new angle is not only a question of camera but also of the approach towards a topic. The story transports the audience into a time when animals and humans coexisted in harmony and as a matter of course.

The mythical approach supported by wonderful cinematography resurrects those times.

However, the story doesn't stop there. Suddenly the hungry bushmen discover an antelope of a kind that these days is reserved for Dollar-rich big game hunters. The audience is drawn into the conflict of myths and modern times.
