Schleswig-Holstein, the land of birds of passage, of seas and of dry humour.

We as a non-native jury never realized what high dramas are played out here. Veritable armies are enlisted to battle allegedly overly powerful adversaries.

So far the only means to defeat them has been poison. In Schleswig-Holstein they are smarter. The film team have found a congenial female commander. With charm and wit she successfully takes the battle into the greenhouse.

The film is enhanced by extraordinary macro photography by a very special expert on insects.
